

OWNER RESPONSIBILITIES

Prior to setting out on your first adventure, please review this general overview of the Happier Camper Owners Responsibilities. Happier Camper is always available to answer any questions you have, but we ask that you are aware of these expectations and responsibilities. Please note, this list is a general overview and may not encompass every facet of Happier Camper ownership.

OWNERS MANUAL

Prior to setting out on your first adventure, please be sure to be aware of the camper's functions and accessories. Your sales consultant will host a video tutorial, allowing you to directly ask any questions you have on the functions of the Adaptiv™ system and further explore the functions of the camper.

REGISTERING YOUR CAMPER

Please note that each municipality may have different regulations about registering a travel trailer. You should be aware of these requirements prior to registering your camper. Generally, this must be done within the first 30 days of ownership to prevent fines from occurring.

Some DMVs (or similar official agencies) have specific requirements for travel trailer registration. For instance, some states require a notarized MCO. You should research your local requirements and inform office@happiercamper.com if we must provide you with additional paperwork beyond the final invoice, bill of sale, and manufacturer's certificate of origin (or the MCO/MSO).

You will be provided an Out of State Tax form if shipping outside of California. Shipments within California are subject to state taxes. Campers picked up in LA are subject to LA County Sales Taxes.

If the DMV employee is confused and tries to collect taxes after you've paid the Los Angeles county or California sales tax, remind them (or their supervisor) that Happier Camper is a manufacturer, not a dealership, and that the tax has already been remitted.

INSURANCE

You will be responsible for insuring your camper. The Happier Camper team can provide you with your VIN# to help you get your insurance. Your VIN # will also be included on your final paperwork.

WARRANTY

Please read the limited 1-year structural warranty of your Happier Camper and understand its coverage, limitations, and exceptions.

MAINTENANCE

You will be responsible for the maintenance and general upkeep of your trailer. A routine maintenance and cleaning schedule will help ensure the longevity of your camper. Visit the Resource Center for more tips on maintaining your camper, such as Prepare Your Camper for Winter.

Pro tip: most veteran camper owners travel with a tool kit so they can make adjustments and repairs on while on the road.

TOWING

Knowing how to tow safely is your responsibility. Happier Camper is not responsible for ensuring that you have all of the equipment required to tow a trailer safely. Additionally, you must know how to safely hitch, unhitch, and tow your trailer. Happier Camper is not liable for improper towing practices, but our Towing Guide has great information that can help you prepare to tow your camper safely!

MOON CAPS

These vintage-looking HC1 accessories occasionally fall off or deteriorate due to weather and climate conditions. It is not Happier Camper's responsibility to repair or replace these items.

CRACKS CAN OCCUR

Be sure to reference the Nature of Fiberglass resource to ensure you understand the types of gelcoat cracks that sometimes occur and can even be expected throughout the ownership of your fiberglass trailer.

RULES OF THE ROAD

Prior to receiving your trailer, you must have a towing kit successfully installed.

You must also know the rules of the road and have an understanding of proper towing techniques. You should also be aware of the highway regulations for driving with 3+ axles.

Here's a helpful article that can assist you in finding a travel trailer driving school should you like to schedule an appointment. Always use your best judgment, understand your vehicle's towing capacity and limitations, and safely load the trailer to prevent dangerous towing conditions (such as fishtailing).

ATTENTION ON THE ROAD

Now, for a fun note: please be aware that you may experience lots of attention while owning your camper! Whether you're on the road or at a campsite, people will be curious about your cute camper and want to know more about it. You might even be asked for photos!

We hope you love your trailer and look forward to the adventures ahead! As always, feel free to reach out if you have any questions.

You'll surely get attention from other campers and drivers in your new Happier Camper!

Consider taking a driver's education course in towing before hitting the road.

DISCLAIMER

Happier Camper will not be held responsible for the damage caused by improper towing or misuse of the camper, its components, and accessories.
